17. Penn State

State College, Pennsylvania, is a remote area that's tough to get to, but if you make the effort for a Penn State football home weekend, you'll be rewarded with a truly unique experience. Beaver Stadium seats 106,572 fans and can be a very intimidating environment for opposing teams.

You've heard of Krzyzewskiville for Duke basketball games? Penn State has Nittanyville, a tent city where PSU students stay to be certain they'll get the best tickets for games. Penn State football really matters in central Pennsylvania, which is most evident on home football weekends.
